

New Poetry by J.E. McCollough

Kintsugi

The breaks on my soul
Are only ever repaired
Slowly.

Old pieces

Of the broken bowl,

Fixed

Back into their usual places

With silver. With gold.

Molten laces gleaming

Across my chest,

Across my beard,

And spreading from the corners of my eyes.