RABBITS IN AUTUMN

Who will find our bones in a thousand years, bleached and brittle under the unyielding sun, scattered in dried grasses by feral dogs or vultures?

Who will hold such curiosities, not knowing that we stopped here to kiss and murmur that our love would outlast the moon and stars?

Who will hold our bones, never to imagine that under the same sun, we once made love on the lushest grass, under a sapphire sky?

In autumn, the fox lies in wait, hearing rustling in the tall grass. Having eaten, the fox moves on. There are no questions of why, or how, or when.

Smoke rises acrid in the air; the sun sets earlier each day; the grapes shrivel on the vine. Time is the fox; we are the rabbits. Please, hold me.
