

New Poetry by Ricardo Moran: “ABBA-1975” and “On the Street”

TAG EVERY WALL / image by Amalie Flynn

ABBA-1975

Abba's lyrics, like water shot from La Bufadora, mingle with volcanic steam from metallic pots of corn.

And the scrape on my knee from chasing the seagulls bleeds, but does not hurt.

On this Sunday, the ocean breeze slips in gossip between vendor stalls as young men in speedos walk past.
Tables of silver bracelets tap my eyes and ABBA's Spanish melody carries on my tongue before any English syllable ever arrived. Before the summer ended when it tore me from the sands of Ensenada to a desert north of the border, to a land with tongues unfamiliar and stiff.

And now when I fall chasing my shadow, my ABBA lyrics cannot permeate foreign soil. Cannot stop the pain.

On the Street

Run naked through the streets and shout, "Make love to me!"

Tag every wall in a turf war with quotes from the palatero, from the child who yearns for love, from the gay son who hopes his father will welcome him, this time.

With your sharp and fast tongue, mesmerize passersby as they get caught in the gunfire of stanzas and sonnets, popping the air.

Bellow on the street corner of how love abandoned you, how your life is empty, how you aborted your dreams.

And every day it rips into you of every opportunity you threw away.

I want that on the wall.
I want all the pain and hurt to get out of bed, to grab that bullhorn and run naked through the streets.
